WINE LIST

The British East India Company established its historic presence in India in the early 17th Century. Calcutta became the first capital of the British Raj. Other trading communities gradually developed along the coast, creating the other vibrant port cities of Bombay and Madras.

During subsequent years, British and native Indians mingled and married, creating the distinctively Anglo-Indian community. This intertwined culture innovated, prospered and thrived and created the reputation of India as the Jewel in the Crown of the British Empire.

Bombay Bistro pays tribute to the best in culture, cuisine and camaraderie of the Anglo-India, past and present.
